

Seasons of Courtship...

Hints for Fathers

Here is your opportunity to gain some knowledge about courtship from a dad who has been through it several times. Fathers, you are a real key to a successful courtship. Your success will be based on how well you develop a relationship with your child. Courtship requires a great deal of trust, and without a relationship of trust your child will struggle with your participation. Here are some of the things I would like to share to make you successful:

- What does courtship look like?*
- When do I start training for courtship?*
- What are the essential commitments needed to guard my child's heart, protecting it for marriage?*
- How do I develop a relationship with my child?*
- What does my child need to determine to make a wise decision for a life partner? When does this need to occur?*
- What does a father need to do to assure their child that they have their best interests in mind?*
- If you choose courtship, how do you respond to requests for a date?*
- How do you prepare a son for the responsibilities of marriage?*
- How do you keep a daughter's heart content before marriage?*
- What should you do when a young man asks to court your daughter?*

To attend this live presentation on courtship and receive a full color workbook, contact: _____

Date: _____

Time: _____

Cost: $ _____ per family

Each family registering will receive one workbook. The workshop is aimed at fathers. Couples are strongly encouraged to attend together. Teenage children are also welcome and encouraged to participate.